ABSTRACT

Toddler groups have a process of growth and development is unique, meaning that it has a pattern of growth and physical development (fine motor coordination and gross motor skills), intellect (the intellect, creativity, emotional intelligence, spiritual intelligence), socio-emotional (attitudes and behavior and religion), language and special communication in accordance with the level of growth and development that is being passed by the toddler (Hadith F. A, et al, 2000).

The role of medical personnel associated with these issues should be able to assist parents in monitoring the development of infants, toddlers so that they can grow and develop properly and as it should be normal. This is done by providing solutions to the problems of parents on the growth of babies. So the growth and development disorders can be detected and intervention to improve the therapeutic effectiveness of recovery.
