

Perancangan dan Pembuatan Website Rumah Sakit Daerah Kalisat Sebagai Media Informasi Pelayanan Kesehatan dan Promosi Kesehatan (Planning and Construction of website Kalisat Hospital Region as a media healthcare information and health promotion)

Ahmad Ainul Yakin

Program Studi D4 Rekam Medik
Jurusan Kesehatan

ABSTRACT

Hospital is a healthcare institution that provide complete health service include promotive, preventive, curative and rehabilitative. Website include on electronic media where can be purpose for delivery health care information and health promotion. The purpose of this research is for planning and constructing kalisat hospital region website as a media healthcare information and health promotion. The sort of research is qualitative research. The collecting data by primary data with collecting data technique interview and documentation also secondary collecting data. The primary data is data or information that for need analysing on website construction such as sort of healthcare service hospital profile consist history, point of view and mission, and hospital organization structural. The construction method using waterfall method that consist analysing, designing, coding and testing. The result of this research is a website kalisat hospital region with the feature satisfaction assesment, criticism and suggestion, online consultancy, rooms availability and healthcare promotion menu. By that website, it can help kalisat hospital region provides easy information for society to get the information, to hold the existing health promotion and increase service that is available to the customer by supporting information technology. The suggestion can make application based on android.

Keyword : Healthcare Information, Health Promotion, Website, Waterfall