SUMMARY

Designing a Tenses Pocket Book for Basic Learners. Hilman Ridanata F3111350. Pipit Dwi Lestari F3111396. Puput Indah Lestari F3111395. Andi Sapto Nugroho F3111484. . 2014. 86 Pages. Language, Communication and Tourism Department. State Polytechnic of Jember.

"All roads lead to Rome" is the short sentence might interpreted to visualize about learning process that we defined as many ways in leaning to reach the knowledge. It is not stuck in a one way, we can look for another way to reach them. The same as teaching – learning process, we cannot just stuck in a one references provided. We need to find other references to faster our learning process. This case happened to basic learner's student of State Polytechnic of Jember. According to our observation for some students of State Polytechnic of Jember we got data that they had difficulties in learning English especially in grammar. Even the students got English course but they had no adequate literature in learning English. Those students that include of basic learners need more literatures that easy to understand and easy to learn.

Based on that fact, we decide to design a book that could be a literature in learning English especially for basic learners. It is better for basic learners to learn English from the basic. This book contains six chapters about the sixteen tenses, regular and irregular verb and common expression that served in an interesting way. Those materials are including of basic material in learning English. We arrange the material by gathering some references that considered as proper material for our project. To make out project better, we asked suggestion from our first and second supervisors about their opinion. We got some suggestion from our supervisors, so we had to make some correction and some addition items for our project.

Our project is an additional media in learning English that proper for everyone who want learn English from the basic. This book contains the simple materials that make the learners easy to understand. Moreover, this book can be a guide book for people who want to learn a basic and simple sentence of English by themselves. Through this project, we are to help the students of other departments to learn English by creating this book. Besides, we also able to apply our know ledges and skills that we got from English Study Program.